When the Dan Sickles Civil War Round Table's guest, Lincoln Anniballi, was growing up in suburban Natick, MA, ten miles outside of Boston, Henry Wilson seemed to be everywhere. Lincoln lived in the Henry Wilson Historic District. He lived on the same road that Henry Wilson had lived on. He drove past the Henry Wilson Shoe Shop nearly every day. Wilson's gravesite is clearly marked with a large monument. Lincoln even went to Natick's Wilson Middle School.

But who in the heck was Henry Wilson?

He was the 18th United States Vice President, but there had to be more to the story. And there certainly was. In time, Lincoln would seek the answers, and in 2021 he got the idea to turn his research into a biographical podcast.

Join us for a conversation with Lincoln Anniballi, and a look at indentured servant, cobbler, abolitionist, politician, General, Senator and Vice President Henry Wilson!
