Washington Roebling, best known as the man who supervised construction of the Brooklyn Bridge, began his path towards overseeing that monumental task during the Civil War.

In addition to his brave, dramatic actions at Gettysburg, his Civil War service was remarkable: artilleryman, bridge builder, scout, balloonist, mapmaker, engineer, and staff officer. His story reveals much about Gettysburg but also about Civil War intelligence and engineering and the politics and infighting within the Army of the Potomac's high command. Roebling's service - leadership, engineering, decision-making, and managing personalities and politics - prepared him well for overseeing the Brooklyn Bridge.
